Updated: April 30, 2024

In today's workplace, having business cell phone plans that meet the needs of your workforce and business is vital. Employees aren't always in the office and you need them to be able to complete work or close deals from wherever they are without using their personal devices. Having reliable cell coverage and ample data is essential.

It's important to identify a robust service provider that works with you and extends an appropriate level of mobile security. These are six of the best business cell phone plans to consider for your company.

Verizon Wireless is a well-known telecommunications company that offers the best overall cell phone plans for businesses. The base plan, Start 5G, begins at $40 per month for three lines. Your business must agree to Auto Pay and paperless billing to qualify for that price.

All plans include unlimited 5G (on capable devices) and 4G LTE data. Workers may experience slight lag when the network is busy, which isn't uncommon for most networks. Employees can bring their own devices, or you can purchase one for them. Verizon includes unlimited talk and text to Canada and Mexico in all plans. You receive 2GB of high-speed data daily and can expect unlimited 3G speed afterward.

If employees travel extensively, the Unlimited Pro 5G plan is worth considering. It offers additional mobile hotspot data, security, and four days of TravelPass. The latter provides talk and text to over 200 nations.

Verizon offers unlimited data plans for devices other than cell phones, including tablets, laptops, and smartwatches. If your company requires more than five lines, you must speak with a representative for an accurate quote. Plans are month-to-month or a contractual agreement.

Specs

Plan pricing: $40-$55 per line for three lines

Data limits: Unlimited data, 5GB of 5G/4G LTE mobile hotspot

Coverage area and network reliability: 4G LTE Covers 99% of the U.S. population

International calling and roaming options: Canada and Mexico in base plan

Most Affordable

UScellular »

PROS:

- ✓ Lowest price among major carriers
- ✓ Call filtering available on all plans
- ✓ 10GB of mobile hotspot data in base plans

CONS:

- ✗ Best deals may require a contract
- ✗ Less robust coverage map than Verizon

If cost is a concern, UScellular is our top choice for the most affordable business cell phone plan. It beats all other selections on publicly available prices for plans of at least five lines. Your business can get the base plan for just $25 monthly for five or more lines. Depending on the needs of your company, speaking with a representative may be necessary to receive an accurate quote.

All plans include unlimited 5G and 4G LTE data. Employees can bring their own devices, or you can purchase one for them. UScellular includes unlimited talk and text to Canada and Mexico in all plans. Roaming to both nations is available in all plans, too. While Travel Passes are an option, no information is publicly available on the number of countries it covers.

Premium plans include up to 100GB of hotspot data, plus advanced security features. However, using devices beyond mobile phones on UScellular is not as easy. The Business Unlimited Data – Even Better plan only offers 50% off tablet or watch data plans. You must speak with a representative to learn more.

Specs

Plan pricing:

$25-$40 per line for five lines

Data limits: Unlimited data, 10GB of 5G/4G LTE mobile hotspot

Coverage area and network reliability: 4G LTE covers the majority of the U.S. population

International calling and roaming options: Canada and Mexico in base plan

Best Coverage

AT&T »

PROS:

- ✓ Cheaper pricing with additional lines
- ✓ Unlimited data, talk, and text to 20+ Latin America countries in Unlimited Premium plan
- ✓ Ability to add on other devices

CONS:

- ✗ Must purchase most premium plan for International Day Pass
- ✗ Add-ons can get expensive

Get Started

If coverage and reliability are a concern for your business, AT&T is our top choice for the best business cell phone plan. AT&T Business Unlimited Standard, the base plan, starts at $40 per month for three lines, assuming you accept paperless billing and Auto Pay. All plans include unlimited 5G (on capable devices) and 4G LTE data, and if employees have their own devices, they can bring them. Your business can also purchase one for them.

If employees travel regularly, you may want to purchase the Business Unlimited Premium plan. The plan offers additional mobile security via the proprietary ActiveArmor advanced mobile security. It also includes the AT&T Business Fast Track, allowing higher prioritization during heavy traffic periods. Unfortunately, the only way to receive an International Day Pass is through this premium offering.

If your firm needs more than five lines, you must speak with a representative to receive an appropriate quote. Plans are monthly or a contractual agreement.

Specs

Plan pricing: $40-$55 per line for three lines

Data limits: Unlimited data, 5GB of 5G/4G LTE mobile hotspot

Coverage area and network reliability: Covers over 295 million people nationwide

International calling and roaming options: Unlimited text to 200+ nations in all plans, with expanded options in the premium plan

Best Value for Small Businesses

Google Voice »

PROS:

- ✓ Works with other Google products such as Calendar and Meet
- ✓ Spam calls are automatically blocked
- ✓ Affordable option for small businesses or one-person shops

CONS:

- ✗ Lacks tools like call monitoring
- ✗ Best features require the most expensive plan
- ✗ Won't work without an internet connection

Learn More

Google Voice is our top selection for value cell phone plans for businesses. The offering isn't a traditional cell phone plan. Rather, it's a voice over internet protocol (VoIP) that relies on web access to make and receive calls. The Starter plan begins at $10 monthly for up to 10 users.

This provides a toll-free number and the ability to work from anywhere you can access the internet, on any device or supported desktop phones. That flexibility allows you to access a myriad of business files, assignments, and appointments from a single platform. Call blocking is standard on all plans.

Google Voice offers other clever features like call forwarding and voicemail transcription. Unfortunately, advanced features like premium support and call recording require the Standard or Premier plans, which cost $20 and $30 monthly per user, respectively. However, if you have a small business that depends on phone calls and texting, Google Voice is a good choice, particularly if you want to integrate mobile access to various Google apps.

Specs

Plan pricing: $10 per line for up to 10 lines

Data limits: Not available

Coverage area and network reliability: Works solely via the internet

International calling and roaming options: Calls available to most European nations, Canada, and the U.S.

Most Flexible

Nextiva »

4.3 ★★★★★ ☆ U.S. News Rating

PROS:

✓ Affordable choice for small businesses

CONS:

✗ Won't work without an internet connection

Get Started

- ✓ Compatible with a variety of business communication tools and platforms
- ✓ Flexible plan options
- ✓ Claims 99.999% uptime
- ✗ Limits texting to premium tier plans then limits the number of texts
- ✗ Requires a contract to receive the best pricing

Nextiva is our top choice for the most flexible business cell phone plans. Like Google Voice, Nextiva is a VoIP that requires web access to make and receive calls. The Essential plan is as low as $18.95 monthly. However, you must have at least 20 lines and prepay for 36 months to receive that pricing. As your needs change, Nextiva makes it easy to change plans.

Unlike Google Voice, Nextiva integrates with many of the most popular office communication tools and platforms. These include HubSpot, MS Teams, Salesforce, Zendesk, and Google Contacts. Your business also receives access to a Nextiva dashboard to manage all of your communication needs. Call blocking is standard on all plans, and they offer a helpful voicemail to email or text notifications.

If you have a larger company, the Enterprise plan may be a better fit. It allows for unlimited participants for voice and video conferencing and provides other helpful resources like call and video recording. While Nextiva is more expensive than Google Voice, its integration with so many resources makes it an ideal choice if your business thrives on flexibility

Plan pricing: $18.95 per user per month

Data limits: Not available

Coverage area and network reliability: Works solely via the internet

International calling and Calls to Canada and other countries available, per specific rates

roaming options:

Best for International Roaming

T-Mobile »

PROS:

- ✓ Taxes and fees are included in higher-tier plans
- ✓ Unlimited text and 5GB of data to 11 countries in all plans and roaming in 215+ other nations
- ✓ Call filtering available on all plans

CONS:

- ✗ Netflix On Us requires higher-tier plans
- ✗ Wi-Fi perks not available on base plans

Get Started

T-Mobile is our top choice for business cell phone plans if you have employees who frequently travel internationally. The base plan, Business Unlimited Select, begins at $30 monthly for three lines when you sign up for Auto Pay and paperless billing.

All plans include unlimited 5G (on capable devices) and 4G LTE data. Employees can bring their own devices or you can purchase one for them. T-Mobile stands out in including unlimited text in all plans to over 215 nations worldwide. Additionally, you receive 5G of high-speed data in 11 countries.

Unlimited talk and text plus 5GB of monthly data is available to Canada and Mexico. Unfortunately, you must sign up for the Business Unlimited Advanced to receive Wi-Fi privileges. Furthermore, you must pay to add data to devices and tablets.

If your company requires more than 12 lines, you must speak to a representative to receive an appropriate quote. Plans are month-to-month.

Specs

Plan pricing: $30-$47 per line for three lines

Data limits: 50GB premium data, 5GB of 5G/4G LTE mobile hotspot

Coverage area and network reliability: Claim to have the largest 5G network

International calling and roaming options: Unlimited text and 5GB of data to 11 countries in all plans; International Pass necessary for calls

What Is a Business Cell Phone Plan and How Does it Work?

A company cell phone plan is paid for by a business that provides service and, if needed, devices for qualifying employees. This allows employees to conduct business directly through their employer-sponsored mobile device instead of their personal phone.

This may allow companies to monitor their employees' work hours, communication, and location through apps installed on the chosen phone. Firms can often sign up for as many lines as they need, depending on the demands of their business.

How Much Do Business Cell Phone Plans Cost?

Many top business cell phone companies fall in a similar range for pricing. Most providers start in the $25 to $35 per month range for a basic plan, which often includes up to three lines. If more lines are required, this typically lowers the per-line cost.

Enterprise plans are often available once a certain number of lines is reached. Obtaining accurate quotes on those plans requires speaking with a representative.

Additional features increase plan cost to $45 to $55 monthly for three lines.

Features To Consider When Buying Business Cell Phone Plans

Selecting a cell phone plan for your business means finding a provider that meets the needs of your workforce. These are some key features to consider when choosing a business cell phone plan.

How To Choose the Best Business Cell Phone Plan

Choosing the right cell phone plan for your company is essential. You want a reliable network that won't hinder employees from working, provides the options they need, offers plans that fit your budget, and has responsive customer service when you need it.

Here are some top factors that should influence your decision, according to Comcast Business.

- What are the habits of your workforce?
- What type of plan will work best for your company?
- Will your employees be fine with their personal cell phones?
- How much data will your employees require?

You should also select a plan that doesn't sacrifice flexibility and reliability for lower cost. Instead, choose a plan that helps employees work without skimping on necessary features.

The Bottom Line

Choosing the best cell phone plan for your business depends on your needs and provides enough data and resources to employees while staying within budget. Verizon Wireless is the top provider, thanks to its reliable network, cost, and wealth of tools. We appreciate their straightforward plans and ability to work with companies on an offering that meets specific needs. Selecting a provider that partners with your business is an optimal way to nurture business growth.
